

Weekly Albuquerque Citizen

VOLUME 11 ALBUQUERQUE, NEW MEXICO, SATURDAY DECEMBER 3, 1904. NUMBER 49

WIFE FORGIVES CONVICT HUBBY

A modest little Denver woman has defied the tremendous power of Uncle Sam—defied to answer the summons that would make her a witness against her husband, who robbed her and then deserted her for another.

Mrs. Clara Jurrens is this woman. She is employed as a waitress in the Empire cafe at 629 Seventeenth street and resides at 1841 California street. Just one block away, at Harrison's living store, Nellie Hayes, the woman her husband fled with, is now employed. She, too, was deceived and, like the wife, she has suffered.

Some four years ago Mrs. Jurrens and her husband came to Denver from Boulder, Kan. Jurrens was a tinsmith and provided for his wife a comfortable home. Their domestic happiness remained unbroken for several months, and then Jurrens seemed to tire of the pretty girl given him to care for by the aged, dotting parents living upon the farm in Kansas.

It was the old story. Just when the other woman came into his life Jurrens and she alone knew.

There were the long evenings when the wife waited in vain for her husband to return home, the amount of money given to provide for her became less and less and finally ceased altogether and she was forced to seek employment to support herself.

Then Jurrens wrote to the old couple at Boulder asking their assistance in declaring his intention of leaving a home for his daughter. A draft for $100 was sent, but in Mrs. Jurrens' name. The signature was forged and with the money Jurrens persuaded the other woman to leave the city with him. He was arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

His term is up today and as soon as he is released he will be arrested by Denver postoffice inspectors and brought to this city for trial. These sloughs of the law have never lost track of him since the day he forged his wife's name on the money order.

The wife is the principal witness against him. She has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness against him, but she will not appear. Without her evidence he will go free. The government can compel her to go to court, but she says they cannot force her to testify. He has been punished enough, she says. She doesn't want him to return to her. She is through with him and will go her own way.

But he has begged her from his prison cell not to send him to another. This plea was unnecessary. She had already made up her mind. Here is the story of the young couple:

They came to Denver four years ago from Boulder, Kan. Jurrens was a tinsmith and provided for his wife a comfortable home. Their domestic happiness remained unbroken for several months, and then Jurrens seemed to tire of the pretty girl given him to care for by the aged, dotting parents living upon the farm in Kansas.

It was the old story. Just when the other woman came into his life Jurrens and she alone knew.

There were the long evenings when the wife waited in vain for her husband to return home, the amount of money given to provide for her became less and less and finally ceased altogether and she was forced to seek employment to support herself.

Then Jurrens wrote to the old couple at Boulder asking their assistance in declaring his intention of leaving a home for his daughter. A draft for $100 was sent, but in Mrs. Jurrens' name. The signature was forged and with the money Jurrens persuaded the other woman to leave the city with him. He was arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

His term is up today and as soon as he is released he will be arrested by Denver postoffice inspectors and brought to this city for trial. These sloughs of the law have never lost track of him since the day he forged his wife's name on the money order.

The wife is the principal witness against him. She has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness against him, but she will not appear. Without her evidence he will go free. The government can compel her to go to court, but she says they cannot force her to testify. He has been punished enough, she says. She doesn't want him to return to her. She is through with him and will go her own way.

But he has begged her from his prison cell not to send him to another. This plea was unnecessary. She had already made up her mind. Here is the story of the young couple:

They came to Denver four years ago from Boulder, Kan. Jurrens was a tinsmith and provided for his wife a comfortable home. Their domestic happiness remained unbroken for several months, and then Jurrens seemed to tire of the pretty girl given him to care for by the aged, dotting parents living upon the farm in Kansas.

It was the old story. Just when the other woman came into his life Jurrens and she alone knew.

There were the long evenings when the wife waited in vain for her husband to return home, the amount of money given to provide for her became less and less and finally ceased altogether and she was forced to seek employment to support herself.

Then Jurrens wrote to the old couple at Boulder asking their assistance in declaring his intention of leaving a home for his daughter. A draft for $100 was sent, but in Mrs. Jurrens' name. The signature was forged and with the money Jurrens persuaded the other woman to leave the city with him. He was arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

His term is up today and as soon as he is released he will be arrested by Denver postoffice inspectors and brought to this city for trial. These sloughs of the law have never lost track of him since the day he forged his wife's name on the money order.

The wife is the principal witness against him. She has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness against him, but she will not appear. Without her evidence he will go free. The government can compel her to go to court, but she says they cannot force her to testify. He has been punished enough, she says. She doesn't want him to return to her. She is through with him and will go her own way.

But he has begged her from his prison cell not to send him to another. This plea was unnecessary. She had already made up her mind. Here is the story of the young couple:

IS A TERROR TO BAD MEN

Special Agent McIntosh, of the Rock Island System, Visits Santa Fe.

CAUGHT LOGAN TRAIN ROBBERS

From Wednesday's Daily Citizen. William G. McIntosh, special agent of the Rock Island system, arrived in Santa Fe from Las Vegas Monday evening to make arrangements to have the Logan train robbers brought to the territorial penitentiary, says the New Mexican. They were indicted by the grand jury for the Fourth judicial district yesterday and will be brought to trial next May in the federal court. On account of their desperate character, the authorities do not desire to have them kept in jail at Las Vegas.

Mr. McIntosh, although still a comparatively young man, has been for the past eighteen years one of the most successful hunters of bad men in the west. At the time of the famous Dalton raid at Coffeyville, Kansas, he was a deputy United States marshal at Fort Worth and after the raid he was made chief of police of Coffeyville. He has in his possession the gun of the notorious "Doc" Dalton. For a number of years he has been in the secret service of several railroads, and has been with the Rock Island for the past four years, in which time he has made 552 arrests, nearly all of them resulting in convictions. Several years ago he rounded up a gang of forty-two trainmen in Illinois who had been breaking open cars and had stolen thousands of dollars worth of merchandise. Three months ago he ran down the silk thieves, trainmen between Galtry and thirty-five in number, who had stolen about $20,000 in silks from trains between Wichita and Fort Worth, and are now awaiting trial before the federal court at Chickasha, Indian Territory.

In the latter, Iowa, holdup on the Rock Island, in September, Mr. McIntosh ran down the outlaws, shot and killed two of them and lodged the other in jail at St. Louis. After the holdup at Logan, Quay county, on July 30, this year, Mr. McIntosh was detailed on the case and trailed the men to Indian Territory. At Chickasha he was joined by United States Deputy Marshals Liddle and Smith, of the Choctaw Nation. After tracking the suspects through the brush along Mud creek, near Chickasha for four days, they met and after a desperate battle in which over 200 shots were fired, one of the outlaws, Tom Boswell, was killed, John Murphy was shot through the foot and with Jim and John Black was captured and lodged behind the bars in Chickasha. None of the officers were injured. This fight occurred on September 29, just two months after the holdup.

While confined in jail, the prisoners made four desperate attempts to escape and succeeded in breaking jail, but were captured within the city limits. Two days ago the three outlaws were brought to Las Vegas, and were identified by trainmen of the train they attempted to holdup. In the holdup Conductor York was shot through the leg and the robbers would have made a good haul but for the fact that they ran out of dynamite and failed to open the safe.

They have been turned over to United States Marshal C. M. Furaker as federal prisoners.

LOUIS TRAUER'S STORY OF ASSASSINATION

DENIES HE WAS AT TABLE WHEN COL. CHAVES WAS SHOT AND KILLED.

(From Wednesday's Daily Citizen.) Louis Trauer, the sheep and wool commission merchant, returned this morning from the Espanola plains, where he has been on business the past week. Mr. Trauer was at Pinos Wells the night that Col. J. Francisco Chaves was assassinated, and gives the following graphic account of the affair:

"Colonel Chaves got on the Santa Fe Central train on the day of the murder at Progresso and I boarded the same train at Willard, where I had been to look at some wool. I left the train at Espanola and drove together in a buckboard to Pinos Wells, arriving there about 5 o'clock. We stopped at the house of Juan de Dios Salas. I went in the house while the colonel went about a hundred yards away to the postoffice.

"That was the last time I saw Colonel Chaves alive. I was hungry and did not wait for the colonel to come back before I began supper. While I was eating, a boy came running in the house and said that Colonel Chaves had been shot. The shooting had occurred in another house and I did not even hear the shot. Some newspaper reports have said that I was sitting at the same table with the colonel when the shooting occurred, which is altogether wrong.

"Well, I hurried to the room where the shooting had occurred, and sure

APPOINTMENTS FOR "FARMERS" COLLEGE

Attorney H. H. Holt of Las Cruces, who is secretary and treasurer of the board of regents of the New Mexico Agriculture and Mechanic Arts college, passed through the city this morning en route to Santa Fe.

The board met at Las Cruces yesterday and elected Prof. Charles E. Paul of the Kansas State Agricultural college, to the head of the mechanical department of the territorial institution to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. Charles Mills, which was rendered necessary by the continued illness of Mrs. Mills.

MASS OF FIGURES OF LATE TERRITORIAL FAIR

WHEN PUBLISHED COMPLETE IT WILL PROVE INTERESTING READING.

Secretary Maynard Gunsul, of the late territorial fair, has submitted his report, but owing to the lateness of the hour it was handed in to The Citizen. It is impossible to give full and complete publicity to it this afternoon. It is a mass of figures, showing receipts and expenses, and when digested would prove interesting reading, not only to the people in general, but to the contributors to these annual fairs.

A WONDERFUL ESTABLISHMENT.

Much is heard in these days about "plant industries," their marvelous genius from small beginnings and the genius of the men who have made such advancement possible. Some of the most remarkable of these enterprises are conducted in a quiet way without blaze of trumpet, so that the public at large does not realize their magnitude. For instance, how many people know that located in the southwestern part of Ohio is the most complete establishment for the manufacture of ammunition in the world?

Yet that is the literal truth. It is safe to say that comparatively few of the millions who have enjoyed and profited by the use of Peters Cartridges and Loaded Shells have any adequate knowledge of the factories where these goods are made. The buildings of the Peters Cartridge company aggregate a floor space of almost 200,000 square feet, to which additions are constantly being made. They are crowded with machinery of latest design, much of it automatic and producing almost incredible results, and all in charge of men of large experience and great success in their special lines. The output in all kinds of shells and ammunition amounts to hundreds of millions annually.

The statement that this company operates the most complete ammunition plant in the world is made advisedly, for while producing the greatest variety of goods of any cartridge factory in the world, it does what no other concern attempts—makes practically everything entering into the complete shell or cartridge of whatever kind, except some of the rawest parts of the raw material and some of the nitro powders. The result is this company not only obtains everything at first hand, but is able to watch over every detail of the process and to know that it is right. All materials are carefully selected, and the finished product is subjected to exhaustive tests. A number of expert men being employed for this purpose alone. From these factories are sent out shells bearing the familiar names—"League," "Hercules," "New Victor," "High Gun," "Ideal," and "Premier," as well as the rifle and pistol cartridges loaded with the famous Semi-smokeless powder, all of which are largely used in this section. Every one who shoots any kind of a gun is chiefly interested in knowing that the ammunition he uses is thoroughly reliable and well-nigh perfect, but these facts concerning the place where Peters ammunition is manufactured may also be of interest to our readers.

Home Market Dinner.

Boston, Dec. 1.—The reception and dinner of the Home Market club, to be given in Mechanics' building this evening, promises to surpass all similar affairs of its kind given by the club. Chief among the speakers will be Vice President-Elect Fairbanks, W. H. Montague, of the Dominion of Canada; John D. Long, ex-secretary of the navy, and Governor Bates. It is anticipated that general felicitations over the recent national republican victory will be a leading feature of the speech-making, and that it is not improbable that Mr. Montague may refer to the question of reciprocity with Canada and the Chamberlain policy.

To Wrestler for Championship.

New York, Dec. 2.—H. H. Eggers, the Danish champion wrestler, and John Plummer, the American champion, are to meet at the Harlem River casino tonight for the Graco-Roman championship of the world. Since the match was made the two wrestlers have been training faithfully and as a result appear to be in fine fettle for the contest.

Incendiary Fire.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 2.—Mrs. Alice Gregory and two children had a narrow escape from death in an incendiary fire this morning. Their house on South Weber street was partially destroyed, the occupants escaped by a porch window. Chief Bailey declares that the fire was incendiary, as the house was set on fire in three different places.

NEW CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL

AND HIS NAME IS JOHN S. CLARK—PROMISES A LIVELY LEGISLATURE.

Special to The Citizen. Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 2.—Since the question of a successor for Colonel J. Francisco Chaves, as the territorial superintendent of public instruction, has been settled by the Governor appointing Amado Chaves, the politicians have turned their wits in the direction of the president of the next territorial legislative council, vice Colonel Chaves, assassinated, and who was, by common consent, slated for that position.

It is now reported from certain political circles that W. H. Martin, the administration candidate for president of the council, will not have smooth sailing, and even now bets are being offered at the resorts here that he will not be chosen.

A brand-new Richmond has entered the arena, and his name is Colonel John S. Clark, of San Miguel county. He is an anti-administration man, and from tales now heard on the plaza of the capitol, has a claim on the office. He has ability as a presiding officer, and some of the republican politicians of the capital, especially the anti-administration men, believe he can fill the shoes of Colonel Chaves as president of the council much better than W. H. Martin.

There is one fact which is positive, and that is Tom Catron will not be a candidate for the presidency of the council. It is argued that the anti-administration people want him on the floor, and therefore will not hamper his services by asking him to become a candidate for the office of president. Catron has been busy ever since election in preparing some reform laws and the repeal of others, and the anti-administration people are banking on Senators Greer and Juntora, of Bermejo county; Senators Clark and Winters, of San Miguel county; and Senator Ballard of Chaves county, a democrat, to make things lively the coming legislature.

FIRE AT INDIAN SCHOOL.

INDUSTRIAL BUILDING TOTALLY DESTROYED—LOSS BETWEEN $1,800 AND $2,000.

A fire of unknown origin destroyed the industrial department building of the Albuquerque Indian school early this morning, resulting in a loss to the government of between $1,800 and $2,000.

Mr. Allen, superintendent of the school, said this afternoon that the fire started about 8 o'clock while the children were at breakfast, and although it had a good start when first discovered, nearly all the goods it contained were saved by the hard work of faculty and students. The building was a frame structure 11x30 feet, and housed the shoe shop, the tailor shop and two carpenter shops. It will be rebuilt immediately. The city department received an alarm from the school by telephone and went to the fire, but the building was almost totally destroyed by the time the department reached the scene.

High-Bred Fowls on Parade.

Tumple, Tex., Dec. 2.—The first exhibition of the Bell County Stock and Poultry association opened today and will be continued through tomorrow. Several hundred entries of high-class chickens, ducks, turkeys, geese and pigeons are on view, the display of chickens being especially fine. The exhibitors represent all parts of this and several adjoining counties.

Par Launching of Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 2.—Governor Frazier and a large party, including representatives of the chamber of commerce of this city, have run to Philadelphia to be present at the launching of the armored cruiser Tennessee. The launching is to take place at Cramp's shipyard tomorrow.

ELECTRIC POWER PROJECT MOVING

COLONEL JOSEPH C. BONNER, OF TOLEDO, OHIO, BANGUINE THAT PLANS OF CAPITAL LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY WILL BE CARRIED OUT.

Colonel Joseph C. Bonner, of Toledo, O., who was at Albuquerque and then Santa Fe, left the latter city last night for his home. He was at Santa Fe on business connected with the project contemplated by the Capital Light & Power company, among them being furnishing power and light to the cities of Santa Fe, Las Vegas and Albuquerque.

"The work and plans were dropped last spring," said Mr. Bonner, "when the Fergus got so low we were rather scared out. Then we began to investigate and found that we could substitute steam for water power at an extremely low cost as coal of the best quality was found on our land. We had Mine Inspector J. B. Sheridan visit the field and test the coal found there. In his report he states that the coal was of the finest cooking variety and that there was sufficient to last us for possibly a hundred years. It is, however, our intention to use steam only when the water gives out and it is very likely that such an occasion will never occur, but it makes the project sure.

"The coal deposits are at just the point at which we intend to locate the plant, a five foot vein, extending along the bluff, and the fuel could be put directly into the furnaces by the force of gravity, at a trifle more cost than water.

"We expect to furnish the power for Santa Fe, Las Vegas and Albuquerque and intermediate towns and also for mining purposes, as it is recognized by experts as a fact that electricity is by far the best and cheapest power for mining of any kind. All of the capital necessary for the construction of the plant has been subscribed and we have assurances of $25,000 in annual revenues outside.

"W. H. Greer, of Albuquerque, who is one of the principal movers in the project, will go to New York with me this week and we intend to consult expert engineers there concerning the machinery, and we expect that the plant will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. Mayor A. R. Gibson, of Santa Fe, has done excellent work in connection with the project and he has been of great assistance in working out all of the details of the project, both great and small.

"I very much regret the sad and sudden taking off of Colonel J. Francisco Chaves, who was very enthusiastic in regard to the project and was also a subscriber to a considerable extent. Considering his age, I think Colonel Chaves was one of the most progressive and up-to-date men I ever met.

"I expect to return to Santa Fe in the course of a few months and will be able to give further details of the construction and more advanced plans of the company."

Shrieking sorrow is the worst of sorrow—keep away, use judgment," his

EX-CHAMPION CORBETT

GOES DOWN IN DEFEAT BEFORE THE CHICAGO PRIZE FIGHTER, "BATTLING" NELSON.

Woodward's Pavilion, San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 30.—In the greatest fight ever witnessed between little men, "Batling Nelson" of Chicago, won from Young Corbett of Denver, in ten rounds.

From the tap of the gong until Corbett's seconds threw up the sponges, Nelson was master of the game at every stage of the fight. His fighting was a revelation and the most brilliant ever witnessed in any ring here. For the last three rounds of fighting, Corbett was as helpless as a baby, but he wobbled around groggily and gamely, until repeated calls from around the house to stop the fight, caused Harry Tuttle to enter the ring. The fight was over and a new man is in line to vanquish Champion Britt. The story of the fight is simply told. Corbett entered the ring at 5:45, almost unnoticed, owing to the presence of a grumpy, hunched negro, whom Announcer Bill Jordan introduced as Count Bialisti, champion Graco-Roman wrestler of the world.

"Batling" Nelson entered five minutes later. Although it was not a championship affair, the dense stiffness of the big house as the men squared up to each other, showed the interest taken in the event.

Both men showed extreme caution in the first round, there being an evident disposition to take each other's measure. Neither showed the slightest nervousness.

In the second round Nelson went right at his man, winning the cheers of the house. The milling was fast and Corbett looked a bit dazed but once a contemptuous smile. Corbett was bleeding at the nose when he went to his corner. Nelson surprised the house by his brilliant fighting. Corbett was bleeding freely at the end of the third. The next two rounds showed some of the fastest milling ever seen in any ring. Nelson continually forced Corbett to the ropes and beat him back badly with short arm blows. "Keep away from him," continually yelled Corbett's seconds.

They began to realize that the Chicago lad was the superior of the man who was supposed to be a master at fighting, but Corbett always came back swift and hard when away with arm's length. Then the grueling work of Nelson began to tell. He repeatedly missed upper-cuts and swings that would have ended the fight at this stage had they landed. The sixth was a furious round which ended in Nelson beating Corbett all over the ring. The house was going wild. Nelson kept up the work in the seventh, beating Corbett until his face was streaming with blood. Corbett had but one chance, to lay for and land the punch for which he is famous, but he never got the chance. In the eighth Nelson even outboxed the Denver lad. He was all but out when the bell rang.

The ninth was a terrible round. Corbett withstood blow after blow with marvelous endurance. "Keep away, keep away, use judgment," his seconds kept repeating. But Corbett missed again and again, he seemed to lose judgment, strength and every quality which had formerly gained for him fame.

The cry of "Stop the fight!" was yelled from every part of the house, but it was not until the tenth that the uttering ended. Corbett wobbled around gamely, but was as helpless as a lame duck. Harry Tuttle then jumped into the ring, and a great yell went up from the crowd. The fight was over.

Corbett, bathed in blood and with a sickly smile, shook hands with the victor and was then helped out of the ring.

Nelson looked strong and was unharmed. He received the congratulations of scores of friends who crowded around him. After posing for the snap shot man he was carried off on the shoulders of his smiling friends. The house gave him a tremendous ovation.

Sale of New Stamps Ends.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The postoffice department has ordered that the sale of the special issue of Louisiana Purchase exposition stamps shall be discontinued throughout the country today, in accordance with the original plan. Beginning with the Chicago world's fair in 1893 the government has issued four sets of these commemorative stamps in compliance with the requests of the managers of the expositions held at Omaha, Buffalo and St. Louis. It is probable, however, that the custom has now come to an end. The elaborate designs of the special issues necessitates a stamp of twice the ordinary size and this has given rise to a general complaint from business men throughout the country who find that the large stamps entail considerable extra trouble in their use. Postmasters also complain of the stamps because of the large size of the sheets they are obliged to handle. For these reasons it is likely that the expositions of the future will meet with a rebuff when they ask for special issues of stamps to advertise their shows.

Y. M. C. A. Conference.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 1.—Many men of note, including church workers, divines and educators, are gathering in Richmond for the biennial conference of the American and Canadian Young Men's Christian Associations of the Theological Seminary. The conference will begin its sessions tomorrow in the Union Theological seminary and will continue until Monday. The spiritual life of the theological student, colored evangelization, and personal Bible study among theological students are among the topics scheduled for discussion. The attendance promises to be the largest in the history of the association's conferences.

Championship Cat Show.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 1.—The first annual championship cat show of the Cleveland Cat club opened auspiciously about 150 cats and kittens. Including Maine, Siamese, Persian, Angora and the ordinary short-haired variety are on exhibition, representing a value of nearly $25,000 in feline loveliness and beauty. A large number of the exhibits come from Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Washington and other cities. Judging began today and will continue until the close of the show next Saturday. Fourteen silver cups will be awarded to the winners.

M. E. Conference at Marshall.

Marshall, Tex., Nov. 30.—Several hundred delegates and visitors are here for the Methodist conference which will be in session during the next few days. The delegates represent all of the territory from Texarkana to Galveston and include a number of prominent divines. The conference program provides for a number of sermons and addresses in addition to the transaction of routine business.

Sanchez Resigns

HIS RESIGNATION TELEGRAPHED TO GOVERNOR OTERO TODAY.

(From Wednesday's Daily Citizen.) An unlooked for development today in the Bernalillo county commissioners' case is the resignation from the board of Benigno Sanchez, which was telegraphed to the governor at the capital. A second important development is that the board of Carlos P. Sanchez, the governor's appointee, was filed in the probate clerk's office this afternoon.

What the next turn will be can only be surmised. C. T. Gutierrez, A. Harsch and Carlos P. Sanchez comprise Bernalillo county's board of commissioners today. Who will comprise the board on the morrow may be asked with good grace.

Commissioner Gutierrez was at the court house this afternoon and was also seen in company with E. V. Chaves, who has asked the county commissioner's matter and who is thought to have been partly responsible for the resignation of Benigno Sanchez.

The surties on Carlos P. Sanchez's bond are Gabriel Sanchez and David Metzger.

Well, I hurried to the room where the shooting had occurred, and sure